Biography:

Maggy Krell is a legal trailblazer who has taken on high-impact cases as both a criminal prosecutor and human rights lawyer. Maggy's most notable accomplishments stem from her tireless efforts to combat human trafficking and empower survivors, both in Sacramento where she lives with her family, and throughout the world. Maggy has frequently been relied on as a legal expert on sexual abuse and trafficking by major media outlets such as the Washington Post, NBC news, the Wall Street Journal, NPR, and Los Angeles Times.

About Sorooptimist International of Sacramento: *Sorooptimist International of Sacramento (SIS) was established in Sacramento in 1923 and is part of a world-wide federation of volunteer service clubs whose mission is to provide women and girls with access to the education and training they need to achieve economic empowerment. The public and especially human trafficking advocates are invited to listen to author and human trafficking advocate Maggy Krell. Ms. Krell will be speaking at Sorooptimist of Sacramento luncheon meeting on Friday, September 23, 2022 from 11:30 to 12:30 p.m. Maggy Krell and her team at California's Attorney General office helped stop Backpage.com, one of the world's largest sex trafficking operations. Backpage made millions of dollars running thousands of listings advertising the sale of vulnerable young people for sex. Maggy recently authored a book, "Taking Down Backpage." will be sharing about her book and her assessment of human trafficking now in California.
